No. C07-1454RSL

ORDER DENYING PLAINTIFFS'
MOTION TO ADVANCE TRIAL DATE
AND GRANTING DEFENDANT'S
MOTION TO EXTEND DISCOVERY
DEADLINE

16 This matter comes before the Court on "Plaintiffs' Motion to Advance Trial Date," Dkt.
17 #119, and "Defendant Scapa Dryer Fabric, Inc.'s Motion to Extend Discovery Deadline," Dkt.
18 #127. This case is currently set for trial on September 14, 2009. Dkt. #109. Plaintiffs Henry
19 and Geraldine Barabin request an earlier trial date of July 13, 2009 due to Mr. Barabin's age and 20 deteriorating health. Defendants oppose the motion, citing defense counsel's lack of availability,
21 Dkt. #122 at 2-3, and the need for further discovery and case preparation, id. at 4; Dkt. #125 at 22 8-11. Because of the Court's unavailability, however, the Court need not weigh the merits of the 23 parties' arguments. While the Court understands the precarious nature of plaintiff's medical

1 condition, the Court's calendar does not allow for a trial date any earlier than September 14,
2 2009. For this reason alone, plaintiffs' motion to advance the trial date is denied.¹

3 Defendant Scapa Dryer Fabric, Inc. requests an extension of the discovery deadline to 4 July 17, 2009 due to plaintiffs' failure to supplement their answers to interrogatories, plaintiffs'
5 failure to stipulate to the authenticity of key documents, and delays in obtaining discovery from
6 a third party. Plaintiffs submitted their responses to defendant's discovery request the same day
7 they filed their response to defendant's motion. See Dkt. #138 at 3. Each side accuses the other
8 of failing to abide by its discovery duties, and, in fact, it appears each side is correct. While 9 defendant's April 24, 2009 requests for production were served less than 30 days from the 10 discovery deadline, see Dkt. #127 at 3; Fed. R. Civ. P. 33(b)(2) (responding party must serve its 11 answers within 30 days of being served with interrogatories), plaintiffs failed to abide by their 12 affirmative duty to timely supplement their discovery responses, see Dkt. #134 at 5; Fed. R. Civ.
13 P. 26(e)(1)(A).

14 Now that plaintiffs have responded to the discovery request, the Court's remaining 15 interest in extending discovery is to allow the parties time to stipulate to an agreement on the 16 Camas Mill documents. Therefore, the Court will allow a brief extension of the discovery
17 deadline; discovery must be completed by June 28, 2009.² Accordingly, the deadline for 18 dispositive motions is extended as well; all dispositive motions must be filed by July 7, 2009.

19
20 ¹ Because the Court finds that its own calendar precludes an earlier trial date, plaintiffs' request
21 for oral argument is denied.

22 ² In deciding this motion, the Court has not considered any reference to or arguments based on 23 the declarations of James Daugherty and Leonard Holmquist contained in defendant's reply brief, Dkt.
24 #138. Plaintiffs' motion to strike lines 1-20 on page four of defendant's reply brief, Dkt. #141, is 25 granted.

1 The Court finds that these extensions should afford the parties enough time to resolve all
2 discovery matters while still allowing the Court sufficient time to consider any dispositive
3 motions before the motions in limine deadline. The trial date will remain at September 14, 2009.

4 For the foregoing reasons, plaintiffs' motion to advance trial date (Dkt. #119) is 5 DENIED. Defendant's motion to extend the discovery deadline (Dkt. #127) is GRANTED; the 6 new discovery cutoff is June 28, 2009.
